New York.—Talk on the floor showed a very mixed sentiment around the ring but leaning to the bear side. There seems to be a feeling that while Southern spot holders had sufficient confidence to held their cotton on the break hast week they are unlikely to sell hedges if not their spots on advances. Every day that passess without bringing in reports of a revival in spot demand. in reports of a revival in spot demand to fill out end-Dacember engagements, tends to strengthen the conviction of some local traders that these engagements were provided for on the buying movement of the autumn. Some also think that January committments have been pretty well taken care of during the earlier season.—Fearsail's.

New York—There is much food for thought in the campaign inaugurated by Attorney-General Falmer in fighting profiteering. At a largely attended inceting the plan was outlined to organize throughout the United States, to urge people not to buy. This is a serious proposition for the profiteer, a term which includes merchants, manufacturers and laborers. When more than 100-1000,000 teople start something, look out. They may like it so well after starting that it will be difficult to stop, but which will be bearish on the profiteer, it is very bullish on securities, it means savings and the next step is investment.—Ettelson of Thompson 1, McKunon.
